

Sean chooses to travel First Class for the extra legroom, he's been allocated seat 1A due to his VIB status—Very Important Bear

Dubai's infamous Palm Island as seen on Sat Nav!

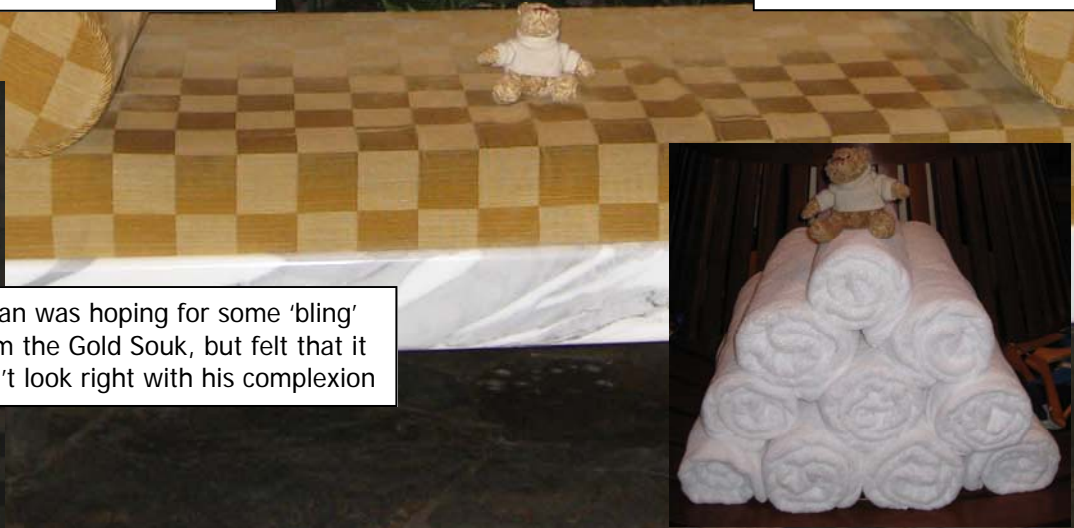

Sean was not too pleased with his hosts for creating a spectacle of him for their after dinner entertainment!

Understandably, Sean felt his humiliation deserved a trip to the spa and shopping mall.

Sean was hoping for some 'bling' from the Gold Souk, but felt that it didn't look right with his complexion

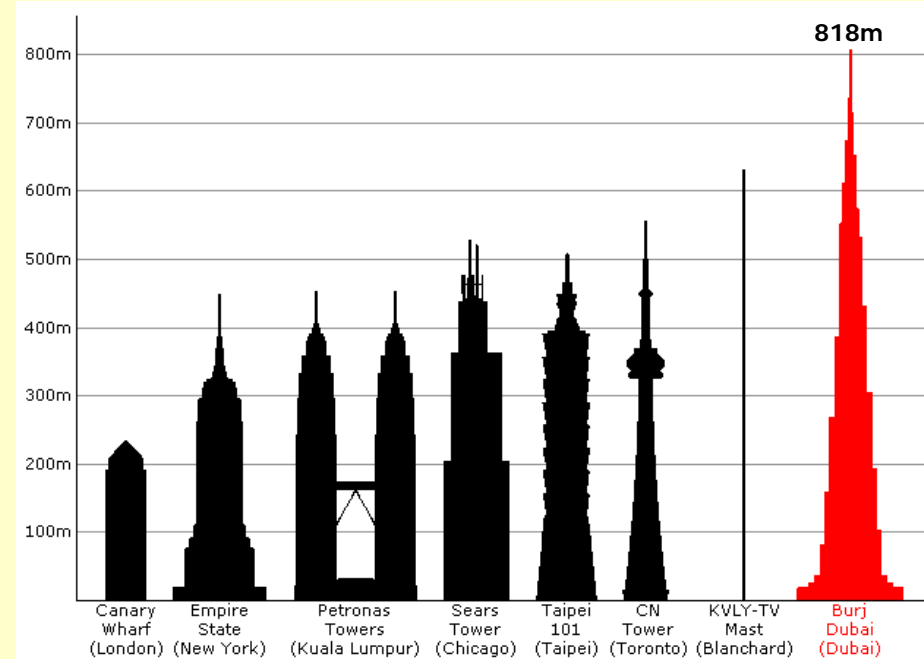

Sean enjoyed the luxury of his room, particularly the mini bar but was concerned the 8 pillows might not be enough!

The views from the hotel were amazing, Sean felt insignificant compared to the immense skyscrapers being built, particularly. . . .

Burj Dubai is a super tall skyscraper under construction in the Business Bay district of Dubai, United Arab Emirates, and is the tallest man-made structure ever built, despite being incomplete. Construction began on September 21, 2004 and is expected to be completed and ready for occupancy late 2009. The building is part of a development called "Downtown Dubai".

- The highest residential floor will be level 109
- There will be double-decker elevators
- The tower will be situated on a man-made lake which is designed to wrap around the tower and to provide dramatic views of it
- The top of the building will contain a public observation deck and a private club above that.
- Burj is Arabic for Tower
- Total height: 818m
The Twin Towers in New York were just 415 metres
